Merging Lanes

By the time you read this, Christmas 2020 will be over and 2021 in the picture. Hopefully no bad weather and no catastrophes, but if so, East Central Electric crews will have responded in their normal way.

So many accomplishments in the last few years—a new office facility, solar farm, high speed internet, and record breaking attendance at our district meetings and the ECE Drive-Thru Annual Meeting.

The board continues to meet monthly, in person or via telephone, because of Covid. What a disruption to our lives, but our co-op stays strong and vigilant.

This summer, District 2 and District 5 board seats will be up for election, and plans for the annual meeting will be underway. The format of the 2021 meeting is still uncertain. We did learn a few things from last year's meeting that will improve the meeting process this year. Stay tuned for updates.

Over the years, I have worked with many types of people. I enjoy and prefer those workers and friends who have a "go get'em" attitude, an easy smile, a light heart, and a positive attitude. Those that enjoy life are fun to be around, and it's contagious. Try it and see.

A common statement these days is, "Stay in your lane." I believe sometimes you have to change lanes to get ahead, or to just get where you want to go.

That doesn't mean it's okay to run over or take advantage of others, but it is okay to broaden your outlook.

"For years, your co-op was thought of as a rural electric provider; however, in our efforts to improve the lives of our members, we merged with the broadband lane."

Take East Central Electric's fiber broadband program. For years, your co-op was thought of as a rural electric provider; however, in our efforts to improve the lives of our members, we merged with the broadband lane. Oh, the changes we have seen over the last 82 years— and more are on the way!

My Grandma and Grandpa were regular attendees and members of their small Stonebluff Baptist Church. On one stormy night, Grandpa went to the service alone and fell asleep during the sermon. The electricity went off, and the preacher announced they would have silent prayer while waiting to see if the lights would come back on.

The silence caused Grandpa to wake up, and through the dark stillness he said, "Well, I'll be damned, they've all gone off and left me."

The preacher responded, "No, Brother Lawrence, we're all still right here."

Remember this the next time your lights go out. You aren't alone. Your East Central Electric crews are on the way! 🙌

Special Announcement

Pandemic Puts Co-op Youth Programs On Hold

This time of year your East Central Electric (ECE) staff are usually busy traveling to schools, sharing information on summer programs such as Youth Tour and Energy Camp.

But during a pandemic, normal is out. The situation regarding public health and safety is unpredictable, making it nearly impossible to plan ahead for programs involving travel and public gatherings of more than six people.

The uncertainty of the situation in Oklahoma, as well as other states, forces state and national Youth Tour coordinators to delay plans for the time being. We understand their concerns, and appreciate the care and caution they show for the thousands of students and chaperones who participate in the annual tour.

We will keep you posted on plans for Youth Tour and Energy Camp as they develop. Please stay tuned to your co-op newsletter and ECE social media for information. Your patience is appreciated.

5 Ways To Stay Cozy This Winter

Baby, it's cold outside! When you're feeling chilly at home, remember there are budget-friendly ways to remain comfy without turning up the thermostat. Here are five easy ways to stay cozy this winter.

Cover up. Whether you're experiencing extremely cold winter temps or you simply "run cold," an electric blanket can deliver quick warmth like a regular throw or blanket cannot. Electric blankets can include a variety of features, like timers and dual temperature settings (if your cuddle buddy prefers less heat). This winter, consider an electric blanket instead of turning up the heat. Your energy bill will thank you.

Warm Digits. One of the easiest ways to stay cozy is to keep your feet warm. Our feet play a critical role in regulating body temperature, so when your feet are warm, your body automatically feels warmer. Try a pair of comfortable wool socks or house slippers to stay toasty.

Let The Sun In. On winter days when the sun is shining, take advantage and harness natural warmth from sunlight. Open all curtains, drapes and blinds in your home to let the sunshine in—you'll feel the difference.

Don't Dry Out. Another way to make your home cozier is to use a humidifier. Cold air doesn't hold water vapor like warm air, so by adding humidity inside your home, you can feel a little warmer. A favorable level of humidity inside your home can also help clear sinuses, soften skin, and improve sleep.

Floor Appeal. Beyond adding visual appeal to your home, area rugs also provide extra insulation and a warm surface for your feet on cold winter days. Use large area rugs in rooms where you spend the most time. You'll enjoy the new colors and textures of the rug, and the additional warmth will help keep your home comfortable.

These are just a few ways you can stay cozy this winter without turning up the thermostat. Don't forget the hot chocolate!

ELECTRICAL SAFETY TIP OF THE MONTH

If you use a space heater for extra warmth, make sure you place it on a flat surface on the ground and at least three feet from flammable objects such as furniture or curtains. Never leave a space heater unattended, and remember to shut it off when leaving the room or sleeping.
