The Truth About Space Heaters

- The energy cost for a typical space heater is about 17.4 cents per hour, which doesn’t sound like much until you run it continuously for a month, and then $125 of your electric bill is spent powering one little space heater.
- According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, space heaters are involved in 1,700 house fires every year, resulting in 160 injuries and 70 fatalities.

If you need a space heater, use it sparingly, with energy use and electrical safety top of mind. Don’t become a statistic.

I am writing this during Thanksgiving weekend, so by the time you read it, not only will Thanksgiving be history but so will Christmas and Near Year's. I hope you remembered to be thankful for what you have. In America we waste more than some countries have.

A dear friend of mine has revealed to me several times how his Mother fed him and his siblings by harvesting food from the store's throwaway items. You can tell she did a good job by knowing his family as a God fearing Christian man and his children are successful and prosperous good people. I am thankful to get to know him.

I trust you remember that Christmas is the day we celebrate the birth of Jesus. My sincere hope is that you get to know Jesus. In times of stress, knowing Jesus as your Savior makes your life easier and happier. Also, 2025 has been a good year for those of us raising grass to feed our cattle. Hopefully the winter won't be too severe.

I never have liked the cold weather. As a young boy I had a lot of responsibility feeding the cows, chickens, and pigs. I would wear 2 pairs of britches, 2-3 shirts, cap with fold down flaps, and a sock cap over that topped off with earmuffs, 2 pairs of gloves, 2 pairs of socks, and a big heavy coat—and still froze. Winter is not my favorite season!

The mild weather during 2025 certainly reduced our kilowatt hour sale of electricity. Weather remains the largest factor in electric usage and, in turn, the co-op's monthly revenue.

The PCA (power cost adjustment) is a pass-through cost set monthly by our power suppliers. This expense is paid directly to our power suppliers for the cost of fuel in power generation. This is our largest expense and continues to increase. In addition, we have seen a large increase in the cost of our supplies like wire, vehicles, and transformers. Over 75% of the co-op's expenses are fixed or otherwise out of our control. During the last few years, we have used our credits and cash to make up the difference and to keep from raising our rates.

“In times of stress, knowing
Jesus as your Savior makes your life easier and happier.”

- LOWELL HOBBS

When sales remain low, like last year, we are forced to increase the CCA (Consumer Cost Adjustment) to keep revenue and expenses aligned. The CCA is a long-standing billing tool that helps cover costs when sales fall short. This should be a short duration. Our controllable expenses remain under budget. The only thing lacking in our budget predictions was the sale of electricity. Stay with us, things will improve.

This is not one of mine but too good not to pass on—(copied from someone else): A man and his wife are awakened at 3:00 in the morning by a loud pounding on the door. The man gets up and goes to the door where a drunken stranger, standing in the pouring rain, is asking for a push.

“Not a chance,” says the husband. “It is 3 o'clock in the morning!” He slams the door and returns to bed.

“Who was that?” asked his wife.

“Just some drunken dude asking for a push,” he answers.

“Did you help him?” she asks.

“No, I did not! It's 3 o'clock in the morning and it's pouring out there.”

“Well, you have a short memory. Can't you remember about 3 months ago when we broke down and those two boys helped us? I think you should help him, and you should be ashamed of yourself!”

The man does as he is told, gets dressed, and goes out into the pounding rain. He calls out into the dark. “Hello, are you still there?”

“Yes” comes back the answer.

“Do you still need a push?” calls out the husband.

“Yes, please.” comes the reply from the dark. “

Where are you?” asks the husband.

“Over here on the swing!” replies the drunk.

If you see galloping power lines, stay clear. The combination of high winds and ice accumulation can cause power lines to gallop forcefully, which could result in the ice or the lines breaking loose. Excessive ice accumulation can cause short circuits and outages.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY TIP OF THE MONTH

If you are in an auto accident involving a downed power line, your vehicle is usually the safest place to be (unless it is on fire). Stay in your car, call 9-1-1, and wait for electric utility personnel to arrive to deenergize the power. If your car is on fire, make a clean jump and bunny hop to safety.
